The screenshot shows the top of the article page. The main headline is "HSJ Partnership Awards 2023 winners revealed" dated 24 March 2023. Below the headline is a search bar and a list of social media shares. The article text begins with "Last night's HSJ Partnership Awards honoured the organisations that were judged to have forged the most outstanding collaborations with the NHS during one of its most challenging years." It mentions that around 900 guests were covered at the event in London. A quote from HSJ editor Alastair McLellan states: "This year there were 141 projects, 21 of them winners and 18 highly commended. The task of deciding the best of the best was left to 90 judges, who reached their decisions over a two-stage process." The article lists various award categories such as environmental sustainability, elective care recovery, and addressing health inequalities. It also mentions the charity partner MedCinema and the list of finalists and winners for various categories.

The screenshot shows the article titled "HSJ Partnership Awards 2023: Best Educational Programme for the NHS" dated 24 March 2023. The main headline is "WINNER: Group of Trainers for Clinical Associates in Psychology - Establishing and Training a New Psychology Workforce for the NHS: University of East Anglia and University of Plymouth and Partners". The article text states: "The NHS needs to increase the psychology workforce by 60 per cent by 2024, yet in England in 2020 only 18 per cent of psychology graduates were accepted on to clinical psychology courses via traditional training routes. The universities' vision is to build a new, sizeable, sustainable, and diverse psychology workforce." It further details that the Group of Trainers for Clinical Associates in Psychology (GTICAP) has developed a new masters level degree apprenticeship psychology training for the NHS. The article concludes by stating that the judges recognised this as an accessible training pathway that embeds widening participation and demonstrable benefit to communities.

Highly commended:

- Clinical Holding Training: Crisis Prevention Institute and NHS Partners

Finalists:

- Bridging the Gap - Communication and Co-production with Relatives and Carers in a Changing World: Born at the Right Time
- CardioWebinar - Virtual Cardiology Teaching Platform for the NHS and Beyond: CardioWebinar and Liverpool Heart and Chest Hospital FT
